

BUILDING BRIDGES: POLICYMAKERS ROUNDTABLE

Driving African Economic Integration: Penetrating the Political Economy Obstacles

*Erinvale Estate, Somerset West, South Africa
15-16 May 2015*

PARTICIPANT BIOS

SAID ADEJUMOBI

Professor Said Adejumo is the Director of the United Nations Economic Commission for Africa (UNECA) Sub-regional office for Southern Africa based in Lusaka, Zambia. Previously he was the Director of the Governance and Public Administration Division (GPAD) at the UNECA headquarters in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. He holds a PhD in Political Science and taught for about two decades before joining the UN. He also served as Governance Adviser to the ECOWAS Commission in Abuja, Nigeria. He has published extensively on issues of governance, democracy and development in Africa including eight books and about 70 articles in international journals and chapters in books.

MARIANNE CAMERER

Marianne Camerer is the Programme Director of Building Bridges at the GSDPP. Prior to joining UCT, Marianne co-founded the international anti-corruption NGO Global Integrity and serves as a trustee of The Global Integrity Trust. She previously headed anti-corruption research at the Institute for Security Studies (ISS), was a founding director of the Open Democracy Advice Center (ODAC) and lectured in applied ethics at the University of Stellenbosch. Marianne holds masters' degrees in public policy and political philosophy from Oxford and the University of Stellenbosch and has published in the governance field. Her Ph.D. in political studies, from the University of Witwatersrand, "Corruption and Reform in Democratic South Africa" focused on the arms deal. Marianne is a Yale World Fellow and spent a semester in New Haven as a Fellow of the Yale Council on African Studies. She is passionate about leadership development and trained as an integral coach through UCT's Centre for Coaching at the Graduate School of Business. Marianne is an Advisory Board member of CAPI, the Centre for the Advancement of Public Integrity, at Columbia Law School and sits on the Advisory Board of the Allard Prize for International Integrity.

NEIL COLE

Mr Neil Cole is the Executive Secretary of the Collaborative Africa Budget Reform Initiative (CABRI). In this position he provides strategic leadership and management of a peer-network of Senior Budget and Finance Officials from more than 30 African countries. Prior to his position at CABRI, Mr Cole worked in the National Treasury of the South African Government in senior management positions in the Budget Office and in the International Economic Policy division. Responsibilities in the National Treasury included: policy advice and implementation of budget reforms; expenditure planning of national government; co-ordination of national budget process; policy advice on South Africa's engagement with the rest of Africa; representation at bilateral and multilateral forums, including multilateral development banks. Mr Cole has done postgraduate studies in economics at the University of London and holds an undergraduate degree in public administration and communications from the University of South Africa. Mr Cole has participated in several global forums on aid effectiveness and contributed in the drafting of the Accra Action Agenda and the Busan Partnership for Effective Development Cooperation. He is a faculty member on the PFM Executive Training Course at the Harvard Kennedy School. In 2014 he was elected to co-Chair the Effective Institutions Platform and also serves as a member of the board of Publish What You Fund.

ALAN HIRSCH

Alan Hirsch is director of the Graduate School of Development Policy and Practice at UCT. Until recently he managed economic policy in the South African Presidency, represented the Presidency at the G20, and was co-chair of the G20 Development Working Group. He was born in Cape Town and educated in Economics, Economic History and History at UCT, Wits and Columbia. After economic research and teaching at the University of Cape Town, he joined the South African Department of Trade and Industry in 1995, managing industry and technology policy. He moved to the Presidency in 2002, as Chief Economist. He has served on a range of public sector and NGO boards, and is associated with a range of economic policy initiatives including the International Growth Centre for which he is the Zambia Country Director. He writes about economic development issues, including a book: Season of Hope - Economic Reform under Mandela and Mbeki. He is a regular visiting professor at the Graduate School of Governance at Maastricht University.

FAIZEL ISMAIL

Ambassador Faizel Ismail served as Permanent Representative of South Africa to the World Trade Organization (2002-2014) and as the Chair of the WTO negotiating group (CTDSS, 2004-2006) and the Chair of the WTO Committee on Trade and Development (CTD, 2006/7). He led the new democratic South Africa's trade negotiations with the European Union, Southern African Development Community, Southern African Customs Union and several other bilateral trading partners including the US, India, and Mercusor since 1994. He is the author of two books on the WTO: Mainstreaming Development in the WTO and Reforming the World Trade Organization. He is currently writing a history of South Africa's trade policy from apartheid rule to its new democracy. He is Associate Editor of the Journal of World Trade; Advisor to the BRICS Trade and Economic Research Network; Senior Research Associate, Centre for Rising Powers, University of Cambridge, United Kingdom; Senior Research Associate, Brooks World Poverty Institute, University of Manchester, United Kingdom; and member of the Partnership Council of the Global Alliance for Improved Nutrition (GAIN), Geneva, Switzerland. He holds a Masters in Philosophy degree in Development Studies from the Institute of Development Studies, University of Sussex, United Kingdom and an LLB and a BA degree from the University of Kwa-Zulu Natal, South Africa.

STEVE KAYIZZI-MUGERWA

Steve Kayizzi-Mugerwa is Acting Chief Economist and Vice President at the African Development Bank, where he has also been Director of Economic Development Research, Regional Director for East Africa, Director for Policy, Head of the Extended Mission to Zimbabwe, and Lead Economist. He re-joined the African Development Bank in 2007 having been a Senior Economist in the Research Department in the early 1990s. He was previously Project Director at the United Nations University, World Institute for Development Economics Research in Helsinki and Senior Economist at the IMF in Washington DC. Before that, he was Associate Professor at Gothenburg University and External Examiner at Handelshogskolan, Stockholm; University of Lund; Dar es Salaam University; and University of Cape Town. He has undertaken research collaboration at the Universities of Makerere, Nairobi and Zambia. He has been a consultant to a number of international organizations including the World Bank, UNDP and the Swedish International Development Cooperation Agency. He earned his PhD at the University of Gothenburg and has published many articles and books on macroeconomic policies, institutions and development in Africa. His most recent publications include a co-edited volume on the socio-economic impact of infrastructure development in Africa published by Routledge, London (2014) and a debate article entitled "Banana out of Republic? On the Political Economy of Africa's Transformation" published by the Journal of the Society for International Development (2014). He is also co-editor of a forthcoming book on policy constraints to Africa's regional integration by Palgrave, London.

JONATHAN LEAPE

Jonathan Leape is the Executive Director of the International Growth Centre and Associate Professor of Economics at the London School of Economics. The IGC aims to promote sustainable growth in developing countries by providing demand-led policy advice based on frontier research. The IGC combines a global network of leading researchers in economic growth and development with country programmes in 14 countries across Africa and South Asia to foster the co-generation of knowledge by researchers and policy makers. Professor Leape was the founding director of the LSE Centre for Research into Economics and Finance in Southern Africa (CREFSA), established in 1990 as an initiative of the Commonwealth Heads of Government to support the democratic transition in South Africa. His research interests centre on public economics, with a focus on taxation and regulation. He has advised governments in Africa and also served as Chief Academic Adviser on Taxation to the UK Government Economic Service. His published academic research includes articles in journals such as the Journal of Public Economics and the Journal of Economic Perspectives, together with book contributions. He holds a PhD in Economics from Harvard University and degrees from Oxford University and Harvard University.

CARLOS LOPES

Dr. Carlos Lopes is the Executive Secretary of the Economic Commission for Africa. He has more than 24 years of senior leadership experience at the United Nations that include serving as Executive Director of the United Nations Institute for Training and Research, and Director of the UN System Staff College, Director for Political Affairs in the Executive Office of the Secretary-General, all at the level of Assistant Secretary-General; and UN Resident Coordinator in Zimbabwe and Brazil. Specialized in development and strategic planning, he has authored or edited over 22 books and taught at various academic institutions.

TREVOR MANUEL

Trevor Manuel was one of South Africa's longest serving Ministers of Finance, and served as Minister in the Presidency and head of the National Planning Commission. Following South Africa's first democratic elections in 1994, Mr Manuel was appointed Minister for Trade and Industry. Two years later he became Minister of Finance. He remained in the post until 2009, steering the economy through a period of significant political change. Before entering parliament, Trevor Manuel actively opposed apartheid policies for many years, and became head of the African National Congress's Department of Economic Planning prior to the 1994 election. He was a member of the ANC's National Executive Committee from 1991 to 2012. Among many international posts, he has chaired the International Monetary Fund's Development Committee, served as Special Envoy for Development Finance for UN Secretaries-General Kofi Annan and Ban Ki-Moon, and served on the Commission for Africa and the task team on Global Public Goods. In 2011 he became a Co-chair of the Transitional Committee of the Green Climate Fund, a UN fund to help poorer nations combat and adapt to climate change. Mr Manuel has received numerous honorary doctorates and awards, being named Africa Finance Minister of the Year in 2007.

THANDIKA MKANDAWIRE

Thandika Mkandawire is former Director of the United Nations Research Institute for Social Development and the first person to take on the Chair in African Development at the London School of Economics (LSE). Prof. Mkandawire was formerly Director of the Council for the Development of Social Science Research in Africa (CODESRIA), a Senior Research Fellow at the Centre for Development Research in Copenhagen and has taught at the Universities of Stockholm and Zimbabwe. He currently holds the Olof Palme Professor for Peace with the Institute for Future Studies in Stockholm. His research interests are mostly in development theory, economic policy and development and social policy in developing countries and political economy of development in Africa.

ALI MUFURUKI

Ali A. Mufuruki, is the Chairman & CEO, Infotech Investment Group LTD of Tanzania. He currently serves as Chairman of the Board Wananchi Group Holdings Kenya, Chairman - Legacy Capital Partners Ltd; Partner – East Africa Capital Partners (EAP); Chairman – CEO Roundtable of Tanzania, Chairman – TradeMark East Africa, Trustee –Mandela Institute of Development Studies (MINDS), Johannesburg, South Africa; Chairman - Chai Bora Ltd, Tanzania; Chairman - Muhimbili University (MUHAS) Grants Committee; Chairman -Tanzania Public Safety Trust Fund, Trustee - ATMS Foundation, Netherlands; Member - Presidential Investors Roundtable of Uganda (PIRT); Member - Tanzania National Business Council (TNBC); Member - Advisory Group on Sub-Saharan Africa (AGSA) for the International Monetary Fund (IMF). He is a Henry Crown Fellow of The Aspen Institute Class of 2001, Founder and Chairman of The Africa Leadership Initiative (ALI) East Africa. He previously served as Member of the Board of Directors of the Tanzania Central Bank, Member of the Board of Directors of Technoserve, Inc. of Washington, DC and Board Member of Nation Media Group of Kenya. Mr. Mufuruki graduated with a B.Sc. in Mechanical Design Engineering from the Reutlingen University, Germany, 1986. He lives in Dar-es-Salaam, Tanzania with his wife and four children.

IBRAHIM MAYAKI

Dr. Mayaki was professor of Public Administration and Management in Niger and Venezuela where he served during the periods 1978-1982 and 1985-1987. He also worked for ten years in the mining sector in Niger. From the period 2000 to 2004, Dr Mayaki was Visiting Professor at the University of Paris XI where he taught international affairs and international organizations. He also led researches at the Centre for Research on Europe and the Contemporary World in the same university. In January 1997, under the presidency of Ibrahim Bare Ma'inassara, Dr. Mayaki joined the cabinet as Minister in charge for African Integration and Cooperation, before holding the position of Foreign Minister. He was appointed Prime Minister of the country in November 1997. He remained in charge until January 2000. As Prime Minister of Niger, Dr. Mayaki played a catalyst role in enhancing the social dialogue in the country. He initiated the creation of relevant technical committees in charge of the negotiations with social partners. In 1998, Dr. Mayaki, with the collaboration of the International Confederation of Free Trade Union, organized a national forum on social dialogue, and lead necessary consultations and measures which resulted in the creation of the first 'National Commission for social dialogue' (Commission Nationale sur le Dialogue Social) in 2000. This commission was the first created in Africa. In August 2000, he created the Public Policy Analysis Circle (Cercle d'analyse des politiques publiques), a think-tank focusing on health and education policy. In 2004, he became Executive Director of The Platform supporting rural development stakeholders in Western and Central Africa (The Rural Hub), located in Dakar in Senegal. Since 2009, Ibrahim Assane Mayaki, is the CEO of the New Partnership for Africa's Development.

MOE SHAIK

Moe Shaik is DBSA's Group Executive: International Finance. Prior to joining the DBSA, Mr. Shaik held several senior management positions both in the private and public sector. His various positions included that of CEO at CorpAfrica (Pty) limited, South Africa's Consul General to Germany, South Africa's Ambassador to the Democratic Republic of Algeria, Special Advisor to the Minister of Foreign Affairs and the Head of the SA Secret Services. Mr. Shaik holds a Bachelor of Science (Computer Science) degree, a Bachelor of Optometry degree and a Masters degree in Optometry (Cum Laude), all from the University of Durban Westville. He also completed an Advanced Management Programme (AMP) at the Harvard Business School in USA (2012).

ADAMASSU TADESSE

Admassu Tadesse is the President and Chief Executive of PTA Bank, the Eastern and Southern Africa Trade and Development Bank, based in Burundi and Kenya, and regional offices in Mauritius and Zimbabwe. He was appointed in December 2011, and the Bank's assets have tripled since, approaching 4 billion USD. Non-performing loans are down to record levels of 3% and its ROE has increased to 14% in recent years while its equity capital has grown over 100%. The Bank has introduced several reforms, attracting several new institutional investors and funders globally in the past 3 years, notably pension funds and insurance companies. The Bank's credit ratings were upgraded in 2013 and 2012 by Fitch Ratings and GCR in South Africa. Previously, he was Executive Vice-President at the Development Bank of Southern Africa in Johannesburg, responsible for international finance and corporate strategy, where he served for 10 years. Prior, he worked as an advisor, analyst and project management specialist, with various international funds and organizations in New York working internationally. Mr. Tadesse holds an MSc from the London School of Economics, an MBA from Wits Business School in South Africa. He is also an alumni of Harvard Business School and the University of Western Ontario where he has also trained and qualified. He has served on several boards, trusts and industry bodies in Africa and internationally. He has lived and worked internationally for over 35 years, in some ten countries across three continents, including 10 years in the US and 10 years in South Africa. He is conversant in French and Arabic, and fluent in English and Amharic, his mother tongues. He is the recipient of a number of Honors and awards.

TAFFERE TESFACHEW

Dr. Taffere Tesfachew was appointed as Director, Division for Africa, Least Developed Countries and Special Programmes at the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) in October 2011. Dr. Tesfachew previously held senior positions as Economic Affairs officer in various UNCTAD Divisions, including as Chief of the Office of the Secretary-General of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) from September 2005 to August 2011. During this period, he was also the head of UNCTAD's Strategy and Policy Coordination Unit and served as UNCTAD's Spokesperson. Prior to that role Dr. Tesfachew headed UNCTAD's Investment Policy Review Section, in which capacity he worked on five national policy reviews, leading field missions, presenting reports and providing policy advice to member States. His prior position was as Special Assistant to the Deputy Secretary-General of UNCTAD, providing policy and political clearance, drafting reports, preparing technical policy papers and delivering substantive support to the intergovernmental process. He has also worked for the International Labour Office as a researcher and teaching fellow. Dr. Tesfachew holds an MPhil and a DPhil in development economics from the Institute of Development Studies, University of Sussex, United Kingdom. He has published on a wide range of topics, including investment and enterprise development, technology transfer, innovation, industrial policy, and terms of trade.

RESOURCE PEOPLE

BARAK DANIEL HOFFMAN

Barak Hoffman is a Public Sector Specialist at the World Bank. His work focuses on the political economy of development in Africa. Prior to joining the Bank, he was the Director of the Center for Democracy and Civil Society at Georgetown University. He also has worked as an Economist at the United States Agency for International Development, the United States Department of the Treasury, and the United States Federal Reserve, and was a Research Fellow at Stanford University's Center on Democracy, Development, and the Rule of Law. He holds a Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of California, San Diego.

CATHERINE MUSUVA – Independent consultant, Rapporteur

Catherine Musuva holds a PhD in Political Science from Stellenbosch University, South Africa. She has over a decade of international experience in research and project management. She has previously worked for the Electoral Institute for Sustainable Democracy in Africa and the Institute for Democracy in Africa. Her research interests include governance institutions and actors; state capacity and state-society relations; electoral politics and democracy in Africa; and South to South migration.

DANIEL MUNENE

Daniel Munene is currently the Academic Development Coordinator of the Education Development Unit (EDU) in the Commerce faculty. The programme is aimed at addressing our National goals and the University's policy of promoting equity and excellence at UCT. Prior to joining UCT, Daniel was the Andrew Mellon lecturer in Economics at Rhodes University. He has held a visiting research fellowship at the Centre for Economic analysis of risk (CEAR), Georgia State University and visiting fellowship in Economics at the Western Australia School of Mines (WASM), Curtin University. Daniel is on the executive board of the Saartjie Baartman Centre for Women and Children and is currently the Vice-chairperson of the Board. He is also a trustee for UCT retirement fund and sits on the Investment committee. He is passionate about regional integration within the continent and hopes for a re-awakening of the Pan African vision and spirit held by our founding fathers. He is keen to contribute to reducing poverty and inequality by empowering the youth especially through education and capacity building. Daniel holds an honours degree in Economics and Arabic from University of Nairobi, as well as honours in Economics and Masters of Commerce in Financial Markets both from Rhodes University.

GSDPP SUPPORT

THERESIAH NEKATAMBE

Theresiah Nekatambe currently works for the Graduate School of Development Policy and Practice at UCT as the Building Bridges Programme Administrator. Her previous work experiences include among others a national bank, a central bank, an NPO and Anglo American specialising in the area of banking and finance.